Governor Jared Polis

March 27th, 2019

Greetings:

On behalf of the State of Colorado, it is my distinct privilege to welcome you to the 2019 Denver Auto Show.

The automobile industry continues to positively impact our state. According to data compiled for the Colorado Automobile Dealers Association, new vehicle dealerships accounted for more than $14 billion in annual sales and 25,000 direct jobs during 2015. The industry has grown more than 94% in Colorado over the past six years.

Automobiles are more than just transportation: They are an engine that helps drive Colorado's economy forward. The Denver Auto Show is a great place to see exciting changes in the automobile industry, where the latest models and the newest technology from around the world are on full display. This annual event highlights the evolution of the automobile and important technological and environmental breakthroughs in the automobile industry, such as zero-emission vehicles. These improvements contribute to cleaner and safer communities in our state.

Once again, welcome to the 2019 Denver Auto Show. You have my best wishes for a memorable experience.

BUD WELLS

LIGHTER SIERRA DENALI ADDS TAILGATE WONDER

By Bud Wells

Don't miss the GMC display, right in the middle of the Colorado Convention Center's huge floor plan for the Denver Auto Show.

A highlight is the restyled 2019 Sierra Denali 1500 Crew Cab pickup. Out front is a larger grille, which so quickly identifies the truck as a GMC, and a more massive hood, which stands 53 inches tall. It houses a strong, smooth 420-horsepower, 6.2-liter V-8 engine and 10-speed automatic transmission.

That's the front; wait'll you see the Sierra's rear end and its new tailgate.

On one of those cold, single-digit nights of which we've had so many this winter, with snow on the ground and wind blowing, I stood behind the pickup in my driveway with Brent Wells, Colin Lindenmayer and Matt Ward. We looked at the "tailgate within a tailgate" which showed up on the just-introduced truck and is drawing attention to GMC.

I had lowered the inner gate two stops, which left it protruding out as some sort of ledge or table surface or whatever. Ward knew to push one more button – the gate flipped one more time and suddenly was in place as a three-step entry into the bed of the pickup. A short post emerged to be pulled into place for an assist in stepping up into the pickup box.

The feature is known as the MultiPro tailgate and GMC says it offers use as an easy step-up, a workbench, handier access to the bed or a seat at a tailgate party.

The new Sierra is 360 pounds lighter than the outgoing model; the weight-loss secret was through use of aluminum doors, hood and tailgate, and a carbon-fiber composite bed that is lighter and tougher, GMC said, than a conventional steel bed. The Denali is the flagship of the next-generation Sierra lineup.

"Along with bold design and premium features, the new one ups the ante in the segment with exclusive ride and handling and performance technologies," said Rich Latek, marketing director of GMC. "They include new Adaptive Ride Control and the most powerful V-8 engine available in the class."

Small storage spaces and large bins are positioned around the interior, including dual glove compartments. A 3-inch gain in length of the four-door cabin is devoted to the rear seating area. Power running boards deploy when the door is opened, easing the climb into the luxurious cabin. The Sierra Denali Crew Cab is built in Fort Wayne, Ind.

An advanced cylinder-deactivation system lets the 6.2 Sierra run on a single cylinder or any other number of them to the full eight in certain driving conditions. The 1500, which continues to use rear leaf springs in its suspension system, corners very well and offers a comfortable ride. Its EPA fuel estimate is 15/20 miles per gallon.

Among optional engines to the big 6.2 are a 5.3-liter V-8 and new 3.0-liter, inline-6-cylinder turbodiesel.

Forward-collision alert, low-speed forward automatic braking and lane-keep assist are part of a Denali Ultimate package. Among other Denali amenities, besides the MultiPro tailgate, are 22-inch polished aluminum wheels, power sunroof and multicolor head-up display.

BUD WELLS

BARROW, JACKSON BUILD SHOW TO PROMINENCE

By Bud Wells

Though the Denver Auto Show dates back to 1902, making it one of the oldest in the country, it was never staged on a definite, permanent yearly basis until Bill Barrow arrived in 1977 as head of the Colorado Automobile Dealers Association.

One of Barrow's first undertakings as head of the dealers was planning an auto show for the spring of 1978. This week's show at the Colorado Convention Center is the 42nd consecutive dating back to the one in May '78.

Assisting Barrow in plans for the '78 show were Hugh Tighe, president of the Denver car dealers, and Bruce Kenyon, of the George P. Johnson company in Detroit. Downsizing and the emergence of front-wheel-drive models occupied the industry at that time.

Following the event at Currihan Exhibition Hall, show manager Kenyon said surveys of attendees at the 1978 show were surprising in revealing the tremendous interest shown by women. "Women aren't just asking a brother-in-law for advice these days when it comes to buying a car," Kenyon said at the time. "They're earning better salaries, have a strong image of themselves as career people and want a car that reflects that image, and gives them good value for their dollar."

The Colorado Convention Center, which opened in 1990, has hosted the Denver Auto Show since 1991. Barrow, on his retirement in 2005, was succeeded by Tim Jackson, who has earned national attention as one of the most active automotive dealer association executives in the country.

Denver, for many years referred to by Easterners as a "cow town," actually was one of the early "car towns."

Denver's first auto show was in 1902, when gas-powered, steam-powered and electric-powered cars were displayed, and a second show was in 1905, both at an old coliseum. A show in 1908 was moved to Mammoth Skating Rink at Colfax Avenue and Clarkson Street, and the larger floor space was filled with 107 automobiles. Motor Field magazine began promoting the Denver car show in 1910 and for a few more years.

Tom Braden, who became secretary of the Denver Automobile Dealers Association in 1921, was planner of many autos shows in the city until his retirement in 1961.

WELCOME TO THE 2019 DENVER AUTO SHOW!

We're glad you're here and happy to showcase the newest advances in technology and design from more than 32 brands of new vehicles. Whether you are a first timer here or have been coming for years, there's surely something for all to see.

Having been in this business for more than 20 years, it's truly amazing to see and witness firsthand the rate of change in our industry. As one of the biggest events hosted at the Colorado Convention Center, take the time to stroll through the 400,000 square feet of displays. You will be delighted at all the 2019 Denver Auto Show has to offer.

As you browse what the different brands offer, it brings peace of mind that our vehicles today are much cleaner and safer than they have ever been. After all, a new car is a 'clean' car.

As new car dealers, we're proud of the fact that we have helped keep Colorado air clean through our Clear the Air Foundation, a non-profit organization we created and wholeheartedly support. We have found a real solution to a real-world problem. In doing this, we also appreciate preserving the right for Coloradans to drive the vehicles they love and that meet their needs. This solution has been respected and admired by lawmakers and associations throughout the country.

The automotive business is alive and well in Colorado. Our new vehicle dealers employ more than 35,000 people through the 260 rooftops in Colorado. Our state and local tax contributions amount to $616 million.

In addition to the economic impact our industry creates, we take great pride in the fact that auto dealers support many charities, community events and activities in our local communities. I know firsthand that giving back and supporting my community is one of the best parts of being a dealer.

The Colorado Automobile Dealers Association has produced the Denver Auto Show for many of the 105 years — and Denver's is the third oldest auto show in the country. We estimate that the economic impact the show creates to our local economy is more than $60 million every year. It is absolutely an amazing five-day event.

We hope you and your family enjoy the 2019 Denver Auto Show. It is truly our pleasure to share with you the best the auto industry has to offer.

Enjoy the show,
Fletcher Flower, Chair
2019 Denver Auto Show

FROM CADA'S 2019 CHAIR, CHRISTINA DAWKINS

I'm thrilled to welcome you to the 118th Denver Auto Show on behalf of the Colorado Automobile Dealers Association. The Denver Auto Show is a celebration of the American love affair with cars and trucks, and a grand showcase for new vehicles.

It has grown to become Colorado's biggest trade show and the largest public auto exhibit between Chicago and Los Angeles. We want your whole family to have a great time looking around everything that is on the show floor. And there's a lot to see!

At the Denver Auto Show you can see what 32 manufacturers - domestic and foreign - have to offer, all in one place at one time. You can walk around, sit in, compare, and enjoy the gleaming colors and new car smell — without anyone pressuring you. If you have questions, helpful representatives are on hand to answer them. There are also several "Ride-and-Drive" opportunities for you to take various vehicles out for a spin and check out all their bells and whistles.

People come to the Denver Auto Show for many reasons. Independent research indicates that 42 percent of show attendees are thinking about buying a new car within the next year. That's not surprising, since research also shows that 79 percent of Denver's working people commute to work in a personal vehicle, and their average one-way commute is almost 25 minutes.

Almost half the people who attend the auto show are self-proclaimed 'car fanatics,' who love to see what's new and different in the automotive world. If that describes you, well, you'll be in your element at the Denver Auto Show. The pace of automotive innovation is moving so fast and the best of it — from built-in safety features to navigation to infotainment — can be seen at the show. Cars and trucks are among the most technologically advanced machines available to us as consumers.

Coloradans want to learn more about "Green" vehicles. The Denver Auto Show is a great place to see electric, hybrid and plug-in hybrid vehicles, then compare them to the gas-powered vehicles that have dramatically increased their efficiency in recent years.

There's a vehicle on the auto show floor to fit every interest, desire and budget, from magnificent "exotics" such as Ferraris and Bentleys, to small sedans and crossovers. But there's a lot more, too. Antique Road Show showcases antique and classic cars. The Military Trail shows off restored, historic military transport vehicles. The Race Car Pit Stop is a chance to see racecars that have raced in every class. For more inspiration, see how you can customize your ride in The Garage, where you can see and purchase the latest in accessories and aftermarket products.

The Denver Auto Show is even a place to find a new career. For the second year, several Colorado automobile dealers are hosting an Automotive Career Fair during the Denver Auto Show. From 2-7 p.m. Friday, March 29 and 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, March 30, they'll share information about opportunities in the automotive industry and take applications. If you or someone you know is interested, please stop by the career fair. Our industry is exciting, vital and offers well-paid career opportunities.

Enjoy!
Christina Dawkins, Chair
Colorado Automobile Dealers Association

BENEATH THE GLITTER – THE POWER SOURCE

By Bud Wells

An ever-expanding number of alternatively fueled vehicles will be scattered over the convention center hall this week, though it may require a look past the gleaming, gorgeous, glistening, sleek, brilliantly finished cars and trucks. The differences aren't visibly prominent – the power sources under hood, under trunk and under floor

Twenty years ago, there were no hybrids or electrics among the auto show displays; the first gas/electric hybrid appeared in 2000 and plug-ins and all-electrics began multiplying five to 10 years ago. Today, there are far more than 100 hybrid/plug-in hybrid and all-electric models offered for sale in the U.S.

Many will be featured throughout the auto show confines, including the Nissan Leaf Plus, fresh into dealer showrooms, making claims of 226 miles on a full charge. Also the Chevy Bolt EV and Hyundai Kona with ranges topping 200 miles.

Look, too, for the Jaguar i-Pace, Kia e-Niro, BMW 530e and the newest Honda Insight, a gas-electric hybrid earning a 55-miles-per-gallon estimate in city driving.

Satisfying to me in January was a smooth, advanced test of a luxury gas/electric hybrid automobile – the 2019 Lexus LC

500h Coupe. The sleek product is an excellent blend of appearance and performance. Lexus labels it a “world-class luxury coupe, with enhanced steering, suspension and braking.”

Combined with a 295-horsepower, Atkinson-cycle 3.5-liter V-6 engine are two electric motors and a lithium-ion battery pack, with total output of 354-hp. The power system is tied to a revolutionary transmission setup which incorporates a continuously variable tranny and an Aisin 4-speed automatic to the engine and motors.

With the new transmission system, I felt actual shift points when the LC was being powered by the gas engine, eliminating most of the droning associated with many CVT-equipped vehicles.

It is a strong runner, and will clip off the 0-to-60 in under 5 seconds; don't confuse it, though, with the gas-only LC500 luxury coupe, which is much more powerful with its 471-horsepower V-8 engine. The 500h looks the same, with its long, tapered hood and well-defined rear haunches.

The interior is finished beautifully with alcantara headliner and toasted caramel leather with satin metallic trim, and enhanced with its Mark Levinson surround-sound system .

A drive of 250 miles rolled up an a fuel-mileage reading of 30.3 miles per gallon, not bad for the 4,500-pound coupe. The hybrid is rated at 27 in the city and 35 on the highway. Included in its secure braking is a regenerative function for the hybrid side.

Its trunk space is only 4.7cubic feet, other adjacent space is devoted to the battery pack behind the rear seats. The Lexus LC models are built in Aichi, Japan.

SERIOUS TECHNOLOGY FOR YOUR SAFETY

Buying a new car, SUV, minivan or truck is always a thrill! After choosing the model and color interior, here are technological features worthy of consideration. Some are downright cool and some will sit quietly in the background, but all help drivers stay safe on the road. In fact, some will even do a few tedious driving tasks. Ready to explore your options?

INTELLIGENT CRUISE CONTROL WITH DISTANCE ADJUSTMENT

Cruise control has been around for decades, of course, but in recent years it has been advanced with radar and other sensing technology. The result is not only a system that maintains speed but one that also maintains a distance from the vehicle ahead. It can slow down and speed up with the flow of traffic, and many systems also will come to a full stop and then start up when the vehicles ahead move.

SELF STEERING

Many brands and models offer self steering as an option. While imperfect, these systems' ability to keep the vehicle in the lane by observing the lines in the road is quite impressive and helpful. Self steering systems will always warn in real time if a situation requires the driver to take the wheel.

LANE DEPARTURE/BLIND SPOT WARNING

Lane departure and blind spot warning systems have been offered for a number of years and they are quite effective in letting the driver know that another vehicle is in a blind spot or is otherwise too close in the next lane. Most manufacturers now offer technology that actually makes it harder to change lanes in those situations by tightening the steering, vibrating and/or sounding alarms, thus making drivers aware of the need to stay in their lane.

AUTOMATIC BRAKING

Typically coupled with intelligent cruise control, automatic braking is quickly becoming a major safety benefit. By sensing vehicles, objects and people ahead (and behind in some backup systems) it will automatically stop vehicles in time to avoid a collision. Sensors update the vehicle's computers hundreds of times per second allowing the car to "think and read" faster than the human brain.

SELF PARKING

Various parking assist systems have been around for over a decade. Originally only able to parallel park, these systems can now also back into slotted parking spaces. Once lined close to the space, self parking systems can typically park the vehicle in 20 seconds.

REAR CROSS TRAFFIC ALERT

Backup cameras are terrific devices and most vehicles are now equipped with them. One extra feature to look for, however, is rear cross traffic alert. This warns the driver that a vehicle or person is approaching as the vehicle is slowly backing up, providing plenty of warning.

BACKUP COLLISION INTERVENTION

ANOTHER BENEFICIAL FEATURE IS BACKUP COLLISION INTERVENTION. IT'S SIMPLY AUTOMATIC BRAKING WHILE IN REVERSE, AND IS ONE MORE LEVEL OF PROTECTION FROM BACKING INTO SOMETHING – OR SOMEONE.

AND A COUPLE MORE NOT TO MISS!

AUTO-DIMMING HEADLIGHTS

While not an absolute necessity, this technology is being offered on a wide variety of new vehicles. It automatically turns on high beams for maximum visibility and dims them when sensing oncoming traffic ahead.

HEADS-UP DISPLAY

Heads-up displays have been available since the 1990s, but very few buyers opt to have them. A number of manufacturers offer this worthwhile feature. Needed information is contained in a virtual display projected on the windshield, limiting the driver's need to look down at instruments and controls. Some versions have infrared sensors that project animate objects ahead, allowing the driver to better see a person or animal in the roadway.

Vehicles with the newest technological features will be on display at the Denver Auto Show at the Colorado Convention Center, March 27-31, 2019.
